

The RIKEN-CPR Physics Workshop for Students

This workshop aims to foster communication among physics students across different laboratories and groups at RIKEN. The workshop is organized by the RIKEN Cluster for Pioneering Research (CPR); however, it is open to physics students working on physics or related topics both inside and outside of the CPR. The workshop consists of presentations by students along with discussion sessions led by early career researchers. Participants without presentations are also very welcome to attend the workshop.
